Unit 3 / Lesson 4 / Project 6

Finishing touches

Estimated Time: 1-2 hours

In this assignment you will be working on your own to add a few finishing touches to the blog project. The tasks are going to be fairly loosely defined, so you are going to have to think about how to organize your code, and where each element fits in our codebase. If you are struggling to get started try splitting the tasks into a series of smaller steps, and discussing them with your mentor.

To finish up the blog you should:

- Improve the user interface. At the moment you have to manually type in an address to login and add entries. These actions should be easily discoverable. Try to think about the difference between what a logged in user and a non-logged in user should see.
- Add a function which allows a user to logout. The `flask_login.logout_user()` function should help you here.
- Secure the views which you added in assignment 3. Think about which users should have access to which sections. For example, should a user be able to edit entries which they did not author?
